Art Unit 1713

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. § 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103(a) as being unpatentable over Takago et al., U.S. Patent 5,288,889 or European Patent Application No. 433070 issued to Pellerite.

Each of these patents shows fluorinated organosilicon compounds which can be utilized as water and oil repellant coatings. These patents are seen to show compounds which render obvious that as instantly claimed. See specifically Takago at columns 3 and 4 as well as the European patent application at pages 6-9. The Examiner maintains it would be prima facie obvious to select the instantly claimed compound from those as shown in the prior art and have it function as instantly claimed.
